The weekend of the 2012 Billboard Music Awards, Natasha Bedingfield will perform an intimate set of her favorite songs, presented by Magnum Ice Cream in Las Vegas. The British pop star—currently working on her new album coming this fall—gave us a glimpse into how she lives the sweet life.

What are your daily indulgences? I have a variety of interests—songwriting, record collecting, vintage shopping, photography and painting. The key to finding pleasure in life is being in touch with all the senses.

What do you see as the best perk that you get for being a star? As a personality in the public eye I can help raise awareness for charities. I'm an ambassador for the Global Angels Foundation, which my mother founded. We're dedicated to championing the causes of unfortunate communities around the world. One hundred percent of all donations go directly to grass-roots projects and this makes our foundation so unique.

What's a guilty pleasure you can't live without? Chocolate! I love chocolate. At the shoot today, someone handed me a Magnum Double Chocolate bar and I immediately had a flashback to my childhood chasing after the ice cream truck. It is a pleasure but I'm not feeling guilty!
